

BUCKEYE STATE IS INTERESTED

In Suit Touching Power of Commerce Commission.

INTERSTATE RATES INVOLVED IN CASE

Arguments Heard in the United States Supreme Court—Wisconsin Brings Action.

Washington, March 12.—Authority of the interstate commerce commission under the transportation act to supervise railroad rates within the states was in turn denied and upheld in opening arguments before the supreme court on the test case brought by the state of Wisconsin.

Attorneys for Wisconsin and the forty-two states, including Ohio, joining in the proceedings, declare the construction placed on the transportation act by the commission in exercising control over state rates to be "destructive of our dual form of government and contrary to the spirit of our constitution" and to amount to "unified control over commerce."

Counsel for the railroads, in upholding the authority of the commission, declared that the states which have refused to approve rate increase within their borders to the level of interstate rates as ordered by the commission, "not only are injuring interstate commerce, but are claiming an unfair advantage of their sister states who have acted liberally to the public interest."

The forty-three states joining in the proceedings are attempting to obtain an order restraining the injunction granted by federal courts to the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad, preventing any interference with that road in its establishment of increased freight and passenger rates within the state of Wisconsin as authorized by the interstate commerce commission.

Permittees were given the various states in the briefs and to be represented orally through the attorney acting for all. They selected John E. Benton, general solicitor of the National Association of Railway and Utilities Commissioners, as their representative.

Importance attached to the case was illustrated immediately when the court allowed a total of nine hours for argument.

Will Be Deferred Until After Close of Baseball Season.

Chicago, March 12.—Prosecution of the baseball players and others indicted in the baseball gambling scandal will be deferred until after the close of the baseball season, next fall, it was indicated, today, when Assistant State's Attorney George E. Gorman declared that it would be impossible to conduct the prosecution during the baseball season and that there was not sufficient time remaining to clear the case before the opening of the season.

TARIFF AND TAX REVISION IS UP

Speedy Action at Special Session Is Promised.

PENROSE SAYS IT WOULD AID BUSINESS

Conference of Republicans To Be Held Monday—A Program To Be Planned.

Washington, March 12.—Chairman Penrose of the senate finance committee in a statement here promised quick action on tariff and tax revision at the special session of congress, which will convene early next month.

The senator said the object of the conference arranged for Monday between Republicans, the congressional committees and Secretary Mellon of the treasury department was to arrange a program "behind which all Republicans can put their shoulders."

If necessary, Senator Penrose declared, it is planned to resort to caucus action to push through the legislation. There would be no attempt to thwart proper discussion, he added, but caucus action might be resorted to in an effort for harmony.

"We can not look for improved business," said Senator Penrose, "until the tariff and internal revenue legislation are outlined and government extravagance stopped. Even the promise of the Dingley tariff law immediately produced better conditions in business."

PLAN TO PROTECT RENTERS OUT OF WORK

Attorneys in Canton Will Give Free Legal Advice.

Canton, March 12.—In order to protect owners who have purchased homes on land contracts and renters who are now out of work, Judges Ake Day and Krichbaum, of the local common pleas court, today named a committee of three attorneys who will give free legal service to persons about to be evicted.

The courts hold that many persons were victims of out profiteering during the boom period of the last two years and now that they are out of work they should not be made to suffer by eviction.

Several cases of foreclosure on land contracts were brought to the attention of the court jointly and they also decided that such cases shall be delayed until times become better. Only cases where persons have been out of work for a lengthy time will be given the free legal service.

NEW REPUBLIC FOUND THRIFTY

Bokhara, in Central Asia, Wins Freedom.

INDEPENDENCE IS RESULT OF STRUGGLE

Revolution Is Begun Last Summer and Emir of Bokhara Is Finally Overthrown.

(BY LOUISE BRYANT.)

[Copyright, 1921, by L. N. S.] Moscow, March 5.—(By Wire) to Berlin, March 12.—I have just returned from a brief visit to those vast, but isolated tracts of central Asia, making up Turkestan and Bokhara and I bring to the outside world the first greetings of the people of the new republic of Bokhara. The honor of being the first foreign-American or European—correspondent to study conditions in this new and far-away democracy, fell to the International News Service correspondent.

Those mighty currents of republicanism which were unleashed by the World War, which overthrew kingdoms and empires and which flung aside kings and princes and emperors in the precipitous rush of political freedom, reached even into the wilderness of the Asiatic deserts. The savage tribesmen of Bokhara, mostly nomadic warriors who had never known any form of government but vassalage to Russia, were caught in the backwash when a republic was set up in Russia and decided to establish a democracy of their own. They did.

Revolution against the khanate of the emir of Bokhara began to simmer, last summer. After the emir had fled from Bokhara, taking with him eight bags of gold, but abandoning his ninety-six legal wives, the new government was set up in the city of Bokhara and subsequently negotiated a treaty with the soviet and Moscow.

During my visit to Bokhara, I was the guest of the republic and was given an extraordinary opportunity to get interesting insights into political affairs.

Officials pleased. The officials said they were much pleased with the treaty with Moscow and they wanted to emphasize the fact that Bokhara is now independent and has no part in the Russian federation. The country is not yet at peace, but tranquility is being restored as quickly as possible. Isolated fighting is in progress with the deposed emir's troops near the Afghan mountains, but members of the new government declared there was no chance of the monarchy being restored.

The former emir's forces took refuge in the hills on the border of Afghanistan. They were attacked on one side by English troops and on the other by troops supporting the Bokharan republic and are in a bad way.

The emir and his army did not remain in the capital—the city of Bokhara—to give battle when the republic—then the revolutionary—army attacked.

There were only a few thousand revolutionaries against 40,000 soldiers in the emir's army, but the latter lacked morale.

Before Capitol. The insurgents took up their position before the capitol and opened fire with artillery. Only a few shots had been fired when the emir and his troops retired towards the southeast, leaving a rear guard of 500 men to defend the city to the last and hold back the insurgents.

Later, most of the emir's soldiers deserted him. It is no easy task reaching Bokhara. A single railway line penetrates the capital, running from Krasnovodsk, on the Caspian sea, to Andjan. Near Khojend, a branch line juts off northward, connecting the trans-Siberian railway.

Bokhara has an area of more than 50,000 square miles and a population of upwards of 2,000,000 souls.

NOTIFIES WORKERS

Wage Cuts Will Affect All Classes of Employment.

Hazleton, Penn., March 12.—The Lehigh Valley railroad posted notices, this morning, announcing wage cuts affecting all classes of employment, except members of the four big brotherhoods, effective April 16.

The amount of the reductions is to be fixed at a conference with General Manager J. F. McGuire, at Bethlehem, the date to be fixed later. The wages of laborers were recently cut from ten to fifteen per cent. and it is believed the same rate will prevail in the wage cuts of other workers.

Bodies of Fighters. Powhatan, March 12.—Extensive coal development in southern Belmont and northern Monroe counties may necessitate removal of the bodies of Lewis Wetzel, Washington Wetzel and Jacob Wetzel, all famous, the former one of the leading Indian fighters in the early history of the nation. The bodies are in a private burying ground on what formerly was the Woods farm, and which must be crossed by railroad that will reach the 25,000 acres of coal included in recent sales.

UNITED STATES WILL STAND PAT

Rights of America in Allied Settlements Emphasized.

THREE BIG ISSUES MUST BE DETERMINED

Disposition of German Cables, Mesopotamian Oil Fields and Association of Nations.

Washington, March 12.—There are three issues now confronting the new administration arising out of the war, which have been the cause for extended controversy between the United States and the late allies, the disposition of the former German cables and right of American participation in the development of the Mesopotamian fields.

On these three, in particular, it was emphasized today the United States is prepared to stand pat on the attitude that we can not be excluded while out late allies split up the spoils.

Reports that the new administration will send peace envoys to Europe to negotiate for the much desired "association of nations" or a "league of nations" remained.

Such a move on the part of President Harding was deemed possible, but not altogether probable. If conditions arise, however, which make it impossible for the regular diplomatic corps to handle things, such envoys will be sent. But this is not anticipated at this time.

In this connection it developed today conversations already have taken place between the state department and the French embassy relative to the policy of the new administration on the peace treaty and the league. These informal interchanges of ideas have not reached the stage of actual negotiations, nor are they likely for some time, it was learned.

Various records in attendance and interest.

A large audience gathered in the church, Friday evening, for the preparatory service and listened to a most impressive sermon by Dr. George N. Luccock, pastor of the Westminster church at Wooster.

Dr. Luccock's theme was the Cross of Christ and his text consisted of the four words, "there they crucified him." Dr. Luccock prefaced his sermon with some pleasant references to the cordial relations existing between the local church and the college at Wooster, mentioning particularly the fact that the college, a few years ago, conferred an honorary degree upon the pastor, Dr. Linus L. Stock.

The session of the church, at its meeting Friday evening, arranged for a number of subsequent meetings in advance of Easter, for the purpose of examining candidates for church membership who will be received at the morning service on Easter Sunday, March 27.

MURDER TRIAL DEVELOPMENTS

Declared Felts Does Not Signal for Shooting.

RISING ON TOES MATTER OF HABIT

Witnesses Assert Alleged Action Is Not a Signal for Killing To Begin.

Mingo County Courthouse, Williamsport, West Virginia, March 12.—To refute the claim of the defense in the "trigger" trial, that Detective Albert Felts gave a "tip-toe" signal to his men, thus unleashing the Matewan gun battle, the state tried to show in rebuttal of witnesses today, that Felts had a habit of rising on his toes. Objections from the defense to questions along this line were sustained, but Captain S. B. Avis offered for the record to prove by W. S. Cornet that it was an idiosyncrasy of the slain detective to tip back and forth from toes to heels while engaged in conversation.

Witnesses for the defense swore just before the first shot of the battle, Felts rose on his toes three times as a "signal" to the twelve other evicting detectives.

The state also tried to show in rebuttal that Felts could not have fired the first shot.

Wade Bronson, county prosecutor, denied on the stand that he had protested against the evictions of union miners' families as unlawful.

COMMON CARRIERS AND A FEW NOT SO COMMON

Tractors Carry Supplies of Expedition in Greenland.

OX-CART STILL IN SERVICE IN SOUTH

Dog and Man Continue To Be "Pack Horses" of Some of Countries of Globe.

Washington, March 12.—"Tractors are crawling over the snow-covered fields of northern Greenland carrying the supplies of the Lange Koch expedition. This novel use of a new-born vehicle recalls that some of the oldest transportation methods still are employed in regions whose civilization is older and higher than that of the Greenland Eskimo," says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"The ox-cart still serves the Southern 'darks' in North Carolina, Georgia and Alabama, as well as in other portions of the south, as his coach and four for the Sunday 'koko-mo-mo'." During the week the stolid beast plows tobacco and cotton fields in India bullocks hitched to a wagon with an ornate bee-hive shaped or elongated covering, not unlike the picturesque prairie schooner, convey the Burmese man and his family along the road to Mandalay. Nor does this animal cease being a means of transportation upon his death. The natives blow up his skin and use it as a float or raft on which they cross the rivers.

In Arctic Regions.

"In Arctic regions and in Alaska particularly the dog has rendered mankind inestimable assistance. Today he is the means by which letters, parcels and provisions reach the snow-bound inhabitants of the interior. The reindeer also plays an important part in the transportation system of Alaska.

"The dog, is the Belgian peasants' close friend, drawing the truck and milk wagon in many towns.

"One of the quaintest wagons of the schooner type now in use is drawn by camels through the streets of certain towns in India. This country affords a variety of conveyances and conveyors among which even the most blasé of novelty seekers might find something to interest him—the humped ox, the horse, the donkey, the camel, the elephant, and the human being carrying a long pole across his shoulder to which his burden is slung.

Burden in China.

"The back of man bears the burden in China. And so the chain of burden bearers goes around the world, with the elephant of Siam that piles the native teak, the carabao that threshes the rice of the Philippines, the man who propels the palangin, the Jirikisha, and, lately, the 'Jirikomobile' of Japan, the trotting ox of Ceylon, the splendid horses of Arabia, the saddle ox of Central Africa, and the camel of the Sahara and Central Asia, to the llama of the high Andes, the ubiquitous automobile, and the homely but utilitarian little burro of Mexico, Central and South America. Thousands of these last named little animals daily tread the trail leading from the lowlands to the city of La Paz, delivering in the capital to Bolivia practically everything the city gets from the outside world. Patiently, too, the burro has trailed its way through history, from a period in the Holy Land older than that in which Joseph and Mary fled from Herod's slaughter of the innocents, thence to Northern Spain and across to America with the Spanish explorers and colonizers.

On High Stills.

"The section of France known as Landes discloses one method of traversing her many square miles of flat, sandy marshes that is probably employed by few except the American boy in play. The shepherds in this area tend their flocks on high stilts.

"There is one city at least in which the horse has no prestige—Venice. It has often been called the 'horseless city.' If traffic policemen are necessary on her liquid highways, they occupy their minds with the problems of keeping the freight boats from submerging the amorous and oblivious gondolier.

"The Mother Goose rhyme about the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker who went to sea in a tub may have had its inspiration in one of the curious circular wickerwork boats, covered with skins, which are in daily use on the Tigris and Euphrates rivers for hauling both freight and passengers."

Chief's Car Stolen.

Middletown, March 12.—An "Oakland Six" touring car, belonging to Chief of Police Frank Ford, of the local force, was stolen from in front of police headquarters, last night, while the chief was attending a meeting of the city commission, upstairs. He heard the engine start and running to the window, called to know what was wrong, thinking two of the patrolmen were taking the car to answer an emergency call. Getting no answer, he went to the street to see his car disappearing to the distance.

RAILWAY LABOR BOARD INTERVENES

Takes Hand in Strike of Rail Workers in South.

Chicago, March 12.—The United States railway labor board, today, intervened in the strike of 1,500 employees of the Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic railroad, who walked out recently when receivers for the road put wage cuts into effect over the request of the labor board that they first hold conference with their employees. The board, today, set Monday, March 21, as the date of a hearing to determine whether the road has violated the board's formal resolution of July 20, 1920, which established what should constitute reasonable and just wages for certain classes of railroads.

The conference of March 21, the board explained, will be in the nature of an endeavor to settle the strike if such action is within its power. Notices requesting the appearance of representatives of the striking employees and the receiver for the road before the board, were mailed today.

PATROLMEN RAID "LITTLE ITALY" TODAY

Lives of Kansas City Officers Are Threatened.

Kansas City, Missouri, March 12.—As a result of an alleged plot on the lives of Kansas City police commissioners and Police Chief Edwards, 100 patrolmen, armed with riot guns, today, raided "Little Italy." Scores of police cars dashed through the district stretching police lines. More than 100 arrests were made.

Police announced they had information that New Orleans gunmen were hired, for $15,000, to conduct a "reign of terror" here. It was the largest raid ever attempted here by police.

New Selling Records Have Been Established Today

The Best and Biggest of all Easter Suit Sales Started With a Great Rush This Morning

Amidst Such Enthusiasm and Eagerness on the part of Customers, as has seldom, if ever, been witnessed in our store

In response to the announcement of our remarkable Easter Selling Events—throngs of eager, interested womenfolk came hurrying into our Garment Sections today.

They came expecting much. They found even more. Even better values—even choicer merchandise than they had dared to expect.

And the very natural result was a most wonderful day's selling. More fine new Easter Suits were selected here this day than ever before in our history.

With all our extra salesforce and preparations—many folks, we fear, were not properly waited upon. It simply wasn't possible to give the right kind of service to all who came today.

We sincerely hope that all such patrons will appreciate this fact and will feel inclined to overlook our failure this time.

We most respectfully request them to come in again next week, if they conveniently can, and we will make extra effort to serve them even better than ordinarily.

The wonderful value-giving and remarkable selling will continue unabated all through the coming week.

Certainly you will not want to miss the exceptional opportunities which this big event affords.

Mrs. Wertz, while in New York last week, planned this collection of Suits to give patrons the latest and best models obtainable.

Some are plainly tailored, while others are richly embroidered, richly beaded and an added smartness of girdles, etc., make these most attractive.

Of choice, high grade materials, hand tailoring of the most exacting kind, lined beautifully with plain and richly figured pussywillow silks—they are indeed, fine and beautiful Suits.

Beautiful New Spring Coats & Wraps A Notable Easter Offering

These exquisite new Coats and Wraps for Spring just arrived. The unusual prices we are offering make one think that the prices are even lower than before the war.

The variety of styles are so new and novel that it seems impossible that such merchandise can be sold for $25, $35 and $39.50.

Most prominent among these three groups are the very attractive new wrap effects and the jaunty little sport models—most of them of soft, fluffy summer weight Velour. There are also Coverts, Tricotines and Bolivias.

Changing the Commonplace House Into a Real Home

Every community has its old brick dwellings. The somewhat out of date, the structure is substantially good.

Wonderful old houses there; but the elements have begun to exact their toll, as is evidenced by the loose mortar joints and the stained weather-beaten walls, if painted; the surface scaled and colorless.

It is difficult to restore attractiveness to the rundown brick home.

Ordinary means are at best temporary, costly and wasteful, affording little or no change. Yet the old brick house offers splendid possibilities if handled rightly—modern touch here and there and an overcoating of—

ROCBOND
New-look finish

Will make the transformation complete and permanent. The cost is negligible, the results most pleasing. Rocbond finish restores an old brick and frame, reducing the cost of alterations to a minimum. The Rocbond treatment restores every corner of plain masonry, weathered surfaces and exterior trim an old brick wall can stand weather, fire and storm, retaining its original individuality. Rocbond finish is applied to the exterior weather and under conditions that insure its permanent service.

You Will Want a Huber.

Why Not Now?

Read what these gentlemen have to say. They all traded tractors of other makes for their Hubers and are now satisfied customers.

Gentlemen:

Marion, O., Feb. 26th, 1921.

I have one of your Light Four Tractors purchased in 1919 and wish to state that it is all you claim for it. It has done everything that you recommended it to do and am perfectly satisfied with its performance.

This is my second tractor, the first being of another make and if I were buying another today it would be a Huber also, for it is made at home where I can get prompt and satisfactory service.

Signed, GEO. J. KLINGEL.

Marion, O., Feb. 15th, 1921.

Gentlemen:

I can truthfully say that I like the Light Four Tractor just fine. I have owned it since April 1st, 1920. It has done a lot of work and is in as good a condition as the day it was delivered to me.

I have owned and operated other makes of tractors, but the Huber Light Four has given me much better service and satisfaction than any I have used.

If I were in the market for another tractor it would be a Huber, for I have received very satisfactory treatment and service from the company.

Signed, E. M. PORTER.

Caledonia, O., Feb. 9th, 1921.

Gentlemen:

We are more than pleased with the Huber Light Four we traded for in May 1920. We have had all the power we could use and have been able to plow 13 acres a day. We have used it for various kinds of work, both on the belt and draw bar and have never had it lay down on the job. In fact we could not afford to farm without it.

Signed, C. W. HIPSHER & SONS.

ERIE NOT TO CUT WAGES: WILL REDUCE ITS FORCE

Crook Returns Loot Belonging to Conductor Dan Sweeney.

E AND RAIL BREVITIES
PICKED UP IN THE YARDS

One Suffers Bad Freight Wreck at Burbank Early Today. — Trains Are Detoured.

Announcement was made today by the Erie railroad that wage reductions and the laying-off of employees will be effective starting March 1, a New York wire from the International News Service to the Star said this afternoon.

The wire announced that cutback was necessary and that, beginning Monday, the company would begin reducing its force thirty per cent, although none of the workmen who are members of the "Big Four" unions will be dropped.

The Pennsylvania is planning to extend its program of running excursions, principally in the central region, with a view to utilizing the passenger equipment which is only used in week-day service. These excursions have been confined to the spring and summer months, but the plan is to extend the excursions and run them to points of interest when deemed profitable.

With a view to expediting the movement of coal to ports on the Great Lakes when the shipping season opens, the Pennsylvania is now loading lake boats that up for the winter at Cleveland, Erie, Ashland and Sandusky. This will permit of lake boats to move coal cars on aggregating 200,000 tons as soon as the ports open. Normally about 24,000,000 tons of coal are delivered by the railroads at the lake ports during the shipping season. Under the new arrangements a great deal of the congestion and delay attending the movement of coal, when the lake shipping season opens, will be avoided.

In order to save its passenger engines from crossing the freight tracks each way going to and from the union station in Columbus, the Pennsylvania railroad has under construction a new engine house, known as the Spruce street engine terminal. This development will expedite passenger and freight service over the road and add to the facilities of Columbus as a railroad center. It is estimated that this engine terminal and the passenger coach yard built in connection with it will cost $3,500,000 when completed. The work was started in September, 1918.

This engine house will have a large overhead crane above the locomotive floor for lifting parts, wheels, trucks or locomotives from one track to another. There are stalls for thirty-three locomotives, each stall being 110 feet in length.

It is estimated that when completed a locomotive will pass in or out of this round house every three minutes. Every up-to-date improvement is being installed in the building. Heat is to be supplied through grates under the engines. Since the overhead crane will not allow smoke to be carried off through the roof, a special draft stack has been placed by each stall which will carry the smoke down into the floor and out through a large common stack at the back of the roundhouse. This arrangement will also lessen the noise in a large engine house.

Adjacent to the roundhouse will be erected a machine shop and for running repairs, and other buildings necessary for locomotive operation such as power plant for supplying compressed air and hot water, a coal shed and ash pits will be placed nearby.

The Erie suffered a bad freight wreck at Burbank, Pa., this morning, and as a result to passenger trains are being detoured over the Erie from and Wheeling & Lake Erie between Gallon and Creston. An eastbound freight was derailed causing twenty cars to go off the tracks and pile up. Both the eastbound and westbound tracks were badly torn up and a number of eastbound trains left their trains at Summit and returned to Marion.

George Huxley, airplane inspector of the Erie, is away from Huntington, today, on business of his department.

A R. Tennis, division freight agent of the Erie, is away from his office on account of sickness.

Several weeks ago a light-fingered hand on Erie train No. 7, stole a grip belonging to Conductor Dan Sweeney, says Friday's Mansfield News. Yesterday records and ticket stubs contained in the bag were returned to the Erie station here.

The handling containing a ticket punch, a bundle of records, hat checks, ticket stubs and other paraphernalia of conductors, was stolen from the train while Conductor Sweeney was busy with his duties in another coach. The lost evidently failed to pan out to the desired extent. Yesterday employees at the station discovered a bundle on a window ledge, where it had reposed for some twenty-four hours, and turned it in to Emmet Steiner, ticket agent here. Upon investigation it was found to contain the only really valuable portion of the contents of the purloined satchel, although they were of no value to anyone except the railroad company.

Conductor Sweeney does not mourn the loss of the battered and much used bag, nor the two or three handkerchiefs which were in it. The total reward of the highwayman for the daring robbery is a nickel-plated ticket punch.

A Complete Showing of the Newest Furniture Creations

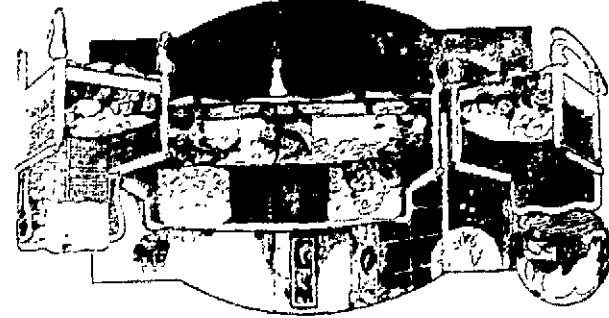

It is only within the last few weeks that the new designs in furniture have been coming from the manufacturers, and this is the first spring since before the war that we have had such a large and varied stock of strictly new patterns. During the past two weeks, particularly we have placed on display hundreds and hundreds of beautiful new pieces of furniture.

Not only are these new styles more attractive than ever before but you will find them marked at prices that are lower than any seen since pre-war days. Wholesale furniture costs have been steadily dropping and now they have reached bed rock. If ever there was a time to buy the finest of furniture at a real saving, it is right now, at present low prices.

A Special Value in Dining Tables, $45.00

These handsome Colonial dining tables come with quartered golden oak 48-inch plank tops, and Monday's special price is the lowest we have seen these tables offered at for years. Just a small payment delivers one to your home and we will be glad to arrange terms to suit your convenience.

THIS NEW LIVING ROOM SUITE, $300

This splendid new living room suite is typical of the high character of the spring merchandise we have recently received from the manufacturers. It is carefully made in every respect with mahogany frames upholstered in a very fine grade of tapestry. The davenport has a cane back, is furnished with two pillow, and opens into a full sized bed. The price on this complete suite is absolutely rock bottom. It represents a most unusual value and one that you certainly want to take advantage of tomorrow. Convenient credit terms will be gladly arranged.

A Massive Brass Bed Only $36.00

This massive brass bed may be had in either Verano Martin or satin finish. It has massive 2-inch posts and 1 1/2-inch filler. Formerly these beds sold at almost double this price but we have cut them to rock bottom for Monday. Six months ago we could not buy them wholesale at so low a price.

Have Your Automobile Seat Covers Dry Cleaned

As you motor, the breeze whips into your automobile seat covers and grinds the dirt and dust into them. Oil and grease, too, are sometimes dropped on them and these stains are stubborn and hard to remove. Have your seat covers dry-cleaned. The cost is small and you'll enjoy your motoring so much more.

Coy, Cleveland.

The American legion will stage some real boxing contests at the armory next Thursday evening, when the local lovers of the sport will have the opportunity of seeing some risk artists of much note and ability in action. The entertainment is for the benefit of the local legion and the boys have gone to a large expense to secure classy matches.

The main go will be ten rounds between Alvie Miller, Lorain's featherweight boxer, who is now in training at the Dunn stable, in Cleveland, and Johnny McCoy, of Jerry Sach's stable, of Cleveland. Miller is not unknown to local followers of boxing. He has defeated most of the best boxers of his class in the country and was a contender for the championship honors held by Johnny Kilbane.

This is also true of McCoy, who has defeated some of the best bantams in the country. Miller defeated McCoy some time ago, and although he has been taking a rest, he believes he can repeat here. Since McCoy battled Miller he has been improving rapidly and has won five bouts, defeating Eddie Lavery, of Akron, by the K. O. route, three weeks ago. By reason of his good condition and experienced gained by his recent matches with fast men of his class, McCoy hopes to even matters with Miller. This match will no doubt be the best that has ever been staged in Marion. The boxers will weigh in at 125 pounds.

The three preliminaries to be staged will be between real boxers, who are fighting their way up the ladder, and it is expected they will come up to the standard of the main bout. Young Kivi, of Pittsburgh, will go ten rounds against Tommy O'Boyle, of Cleveland, at 126 pounds. Louis DeArco, of Cleveland, and Johnny Harcourt, of Akron, both well-known ring artists, will go eight rounds at 120 pounds. The other preliminary will be between Johnny Gerry and "Speed" Norris, two fast local boys. Tickets are selling fast and a capacity crowd is expected.

SAUCE FOR THE GANDER, SAUCE FOR THE GOOSE

What Will Kraner and Long Do Now?

Now what's going to happen? Will L. H. Kraner, teacher in the departmental school, resign as township clerk, or will he quit the school room? He's a Democrat.

Will Joseph Long, a janitor at the departmental school building, resign as township treasurer, or will he quit as janitor? He's a Democrat.

These questions are apt to arise just now because Pearl H. Selis, member of the city council, is going to resign his councilmanic job because he's the superintendent of school janitors.

Hert J. Shelton is going to resign as a member of council because he makes his living as deputy county treasurer now and will become treasurer next September. Both are Republicans and both are resigning from council because the attorney general thinks it is the wise thing to do.

Now, a good many are wondering what Kraner, the school teacher, and Long, the school janitor, are going to do.

Holding A Husband

By ADELE GARRISON.

"Don't feel so badly, Katie," Mrs. Durkee said, and if I had not known her so well, I would have marvelled at the swift transition from the shrewish mood of half an hour before, to the kindly one which palpably now invested her. "It isn't half so bad as it looks. I know I've been looking it over. It won't take you long to get it in order again, but you ought to have a little lunch first. I have some hot coffee and things for you all on the table over in my kitchen. So hurry over, you and Jim, and eat them before you start over to looking around here. Midge, you bring them over. I must hurry back to see that the coffee doesn't boil over."

She whisked back over the lawn, and a tender, amused little smile quirked my lips as I looked after her. But a few minutes before she had referred to Katie contemptuously, declaring that the girl would "drive her wild," if in her employ. And here she was, taking time from her business, morning to prepare a lunch for the returned couple? It was an eminently characteristic proceeding of Mrs. Durkee.

Katie mopped her eyes, pulled her hair and recovered her spirits miraculously.

"She was darling, wasn't she?" she remarked emphatically. "Come on, Joem. I think I smell old coffee already yet."

She fairly danced over the lawn, after me, Jim soberly bringing up the rear. And when she was seated at Mrs. Durkee's kitchen table, doing valiant justice to the good things with which Mrs. Durkee had heaped her plate, one hardly knew whether to award the palm of civility to Katie or to little Mrs. Durkee, so excitedly interested were both in the "wreckage left by the midnight marauders."

"You shoot, you angel!" Katie declared when she evidently could not manage another mouthful. "You sure hungry."

She gathered up her dishes and Jim's and cleared a corner of the table deftly.

"Vore dishpan?" she demanded. "Run along," Mrs. Durkee commanded. "Those dishes won't take me a minute. I have to be in the kitchen all the forenoon, anyway, with my cake and pudding for tonight, so I'll have nothing else to do but to put around with things like these between-times."

I answered the question in Katie's round eyes.

"Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Durkee are coming home tonight," I said smiling.

Katie clapped her hands and then looked reproachfully at Mrs. Durkee.

"And you no buy, yet you have such nice loonche!" she exclaimed. "Now I tell you, I go over house, me and Joem, we work like devil till we get all back up again, den we come over here, anything you want us do, we do eet junk so quick as you little sheep jerk hoe's tail."

"Thank you, Katie," Mrs. Durkee smiled. "I know you'll help me out if I need you."

"Sure thing," Katie returned. "Come soon."

Jim bowed awkwardly but with sincere respect in the direction of Mrs. Durkee.

"I'm sure much obliged, ma'am," he said heartily, and followed Katie's fitting figure, now half-way across the lawn.

I made a tentative movement toward the soiled dishes, but my little neighbor put up an authoritative hand.

"You clear out of here and oversee that girl! But answer a question first. Does Katie know you've sold the house and are going to move?"

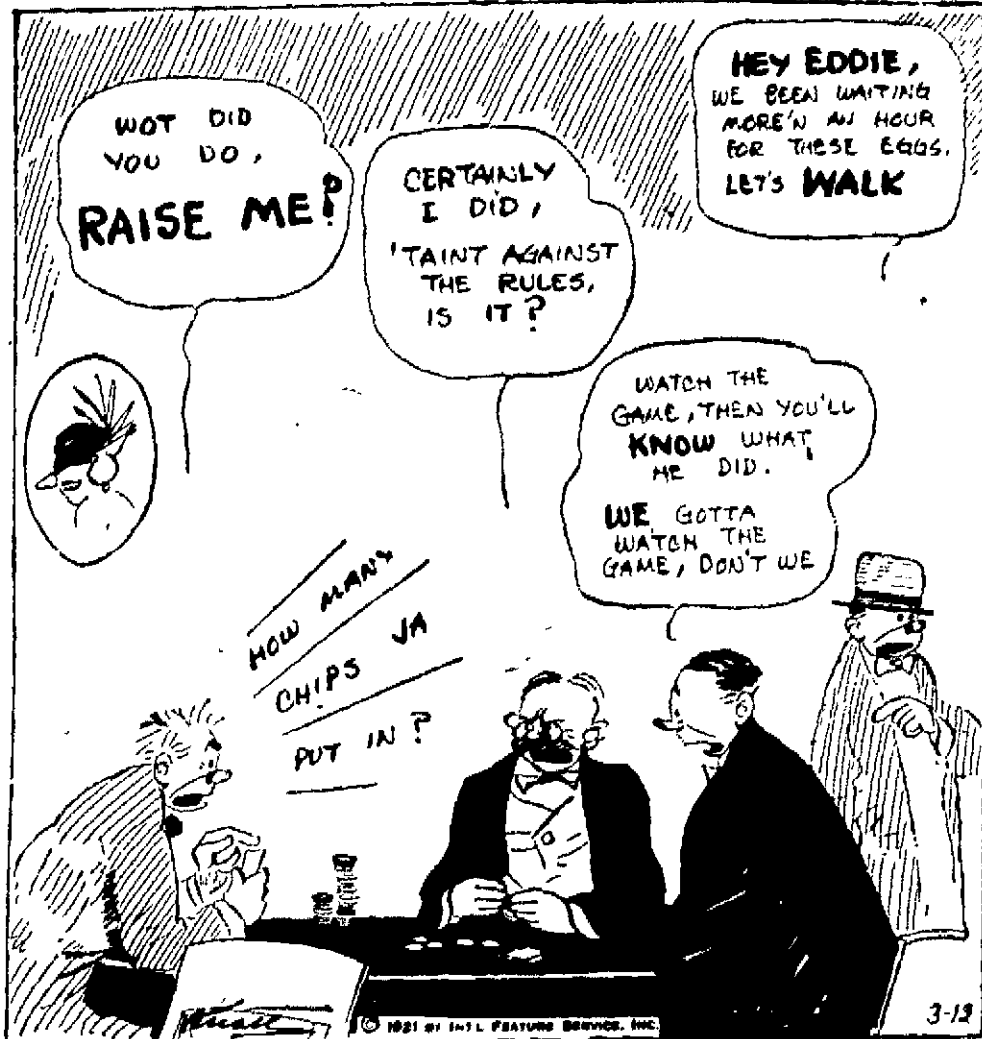

I stopped, startled.

"Why? No," I said. "She doesn't think of telling her when I summoned her back to meet me here, but thought better of it."

"Then take my advice, and don't say a word about it until she gets over her upset about this robbery business," Mrs. Durkee advised shrewdly.

"She's on the verge of hysterics now, and this is no day for her to have 'em."

"Thank you," I said gratefully. "That's a very good idea. If you'll just caution the rest not to mention it until I get ready to tell her."

"I'll see to 'em. All right, Jim! Come here and kiss Auntie Durkee."

Marion, a lovely vision, if rather an untidy one, stood in the doorway. She evidently had dressed in a hurry, and the results were apparent in mismatched buttons and buttonholes, hair ribbon decidedly askew, and a shoelace on the verge of coming untied.

"Why didn't you wake me, Auntie Durkee?" the child said reproachfully. "Mother said I was to get up early and help you today."

"So you shall, sweetheart," Mrs. Durkee replied fondly. "But I truly didn't need you before, and I couldn't bear to wake you, you were sleeping so sweetly. Come now and see what I saved for your breakfast."

"The old warm liking which I had for Mrs. Durkee came back to my heart as I left her kitchen and walked rapidly toward my own home. This was the real woman, and she could no more help her shrewish, jealous mood of the morning, than her pet kitten could help showing its claws when its fur was ruffled the wrong way.

Prejudice never recognizes itself when it looks in the mirror.

Over 50 Years Ago

A young man who practiced medicine in Pennsylvania was famous and was called in consultation in many towns and cities because of his success in the treatment of disease. He finally made up his mind to place some of his treatments before the entire United States and, moving to Buffalo, he put up what he called his Favorite Prescription, and placed it with the druggists in every state in the Union.

That was over fifty-five years ago. For fifty-one years this Favorite Prescription of Dr. Pierce's has sold more largely throughout the United States than any other medicine of like character. It's the testimony of thousands of women that it has benefited or entirely eradicated such distressing ailments as women are prone to.

For over fifty years some of Dr. Pierce's home medicines have been selling over the drug counters, so that more than fifty million bottles have been sold during that time. This speaks well for the reliability and value of Dr. Pierce's standard home remedies. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a blood tonic and strength-builder which contains no alcohol, yet has tonic qualities that have endeared it to the American public. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, composed of May-apple, Aloin and jalap, have long been considered a reliable vegetable laxative, in the same way that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has long been recognized as a tonic for diseases peculiar to womanhood. More recently that wonderful discovery of Dr. Pierce's—namely, Anuric (anti-uric acid), has been successfully used by many thousands of people who write Dr. Pierce in unqualified terms of the benefits received—that their backache and other symptoms of kidney trouble have been completely conquered by the use of Anuric.

Heat of Red Peppers Breaks Chest Colds

Ease your tight, aching chest. Stop the pain. Break up the congestion. Feel a bad cold loosen up in just a short time.

"Red Pepper Rub" is the cold remedy that brings the quickest relief. It can not hurt you and it certainly seems to end the tightness and drive the congestion and soreness right out.

When heat penetrates right down into colds, congestion, aching muscles and sore, stiff joints, relief comes at once.

Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers. The moment you apply Red Pepper Rub for colds, backache, sore muscles, stiff neck, lumbago, or the pains of rheumatism or neuritis, you feel the tingling heat.

In three minutes the congested spot is warmed through and through. When you are suffering so you can hardly get about, just get a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub, made from red peppers, at any drug store. You will have the quickest relief known.—Adv.

SALTS IF BACKACHE AND KIDNEYS HURT

Stop eating meat for a while if your bladder is troubling you.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region, it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms and acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels removing all the bad's various wastes else you have backache, headache, dizziness, your eyes grow watery, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, chafes often get sore, water inside and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good reliable physician, at once, or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with bicarbonate and 4-oxalate salts. It is also used to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, can not injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia water drink.—Adv.

PAINS IN SIDE AND BACK

Caused by Woman's Ills and Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Grafton, Pa.—"I was troubled with inflammation and pains in my sides and back. After doctoring with different medicines and getting no relief, I had almost given up hope when my sister told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and knowing that she had been helped by it, I purchased it. I was unable to do my work at that time, but after taking several bottles of the Vegetable Compound I can now do anything about the house or farm that a woman should do. I have been a sufferer for a long time, but I have never seen. I am willing for my letter to be used for a testimonial to tell other suffering women how much your medicine has done for me, as I give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound all the praise."—Mrs. BLAIR L. FISHER, R. D. 1, Box 37, Grafton, Pa.

Working early and late—lifting, carrying, and the heaviest of household duties—is it any wonder that it results in backaches and kindred ills. But every woman who suffers as Mrs. Fisher did should profit by her experience and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

GOOD HEALTH HINTS

Oklahoma Farmer Gives Sound Advice on Avoiding Sickness.—Used Black-Draught 30 Years.

Canter, Okla.—"I have used Theodore's Black-Draught for about thirty years, and certainly ought to know by this time what a good medicine it is," says Mr. T. J. Bosler, a well-known farmer of this place. Mr. Bosler had passed his three-score and tenth year, but declares his health still is good, "and I can say Black-Draught did its part."

"Where there is a lot of malaria, a liver medicine is a necessity, and I have never found one better than Black-Draught," continues the Oklahoma farmer. "It is one that I know to be reliable. I sure use it for the liver, stomach, constipation, indigestion, and it has done me a world of good. We use it for the family, and it gives satisfaction."

"Most trouble, or sickness, comes from the liver, and if taken in time can be avoided. That is why I use Black-Draught as I do. I am much pleased with results obtained."

Theodore's Black-Draught is purely vegetable. It acts on the bowels, gently stimulating the liver, and helps to increase the normal flow of bile into the intestines. It assists in the digestion of food, and relieves constipation in a prompt and natural way.

MEDICAL FACTS AND CHIROPRACTIC FICTION

Throughout the length and breadth of the country there has been heralded an alleged marvelous cure of what the newspapers have been pleased to call "talking sickness." Not only have the newspapers made sensational stories out of it, but the chiropractors have used it as a basis for flaming newspaper advertisements extolling the virtues of their cult. Reading these new articles and advertisements one learns that an 18-year-old child was suffering from a "strange talking malady" that was so remarkable that "specialists from all parts of the country were interested in her case." Further, one learns that "every form of relative had been administered without improvement," and "all the medical physicians and consulting specialists whose services were tendered" failed to bring relief. Finally, a chiropractor "pleaded for the opportunity to save the child and gained consent of the parents." In a "few moments" the chiropractor "adjusted" the "second and fifth vertebrae," and "the talking stopped!" And, continued the full page advertisements, in very large and very black type: "She Has Completely Recovered and Is as Healthy and Happy as You." So much for the fiction. It made a good newspaper story, especially for those newspapers that saw in it the opportunity to suggest to the chiropractic fraternity that, as their business had been given a magnificent boost in the news columns, it was highly desirable that they should add to this free advertising momentum an additional urge through the advertising pages. Rate card enclosed. What are the facts? Briefly these: That the child did not suffer from so-called "talking sickness;" that the alleged adjustment of the spine did not "cure" the "sickness" and, finally, that the child has not "completely recovered," but is still dangerously ill. The case was one of epidemic encephalitis, with a temperature ranging between 99 and 103 and active delirium, inequality of the pupils and strabismus. The improvement was gradual and that incident to the ordinarily observed progress of the disease. As shown by the case record, the chiropractor's "treatment" did not modify the course of the disease. The "talking" had ceased at intervals previous to his visit and continued at intervals after his "treatment." But the publicity given the case offered great opportunities for advertising and, as advertising is an important part of the chiropractic curriculum it is but natural that this cult should take advantage of it.

Organ of the American Medical Association.

Rubin, concerning whom many sensational newspaper stories have been published.

The Automobile Simplified

The Storage Battery.

The introduction of the starting system, the storage battery has become an extremely important part of the automobile, and one which needs a certain amount of attention. The work it does is enormous in comparison to what the enormous sale of cars in the last few years can be said to be perhaps more than to any other feature.

Even in an early lesson that you are composed of cells; thus the battery is composed of two or are only three cells for the lights, etc. The illustration shows this, the heavy wires being those used for the motor or 12-volt volts.

The Capacity.

The capacity, or let us say the amount of current which can be stored up in a storage battery is given in amperes-hours. Thus, there are forty, sixty, eighty, 100, etc., amperes-hours batteries. The number of amperes flowing, multiplied by the number of hours it flows, being the amperes-hours. So a sixty-ampere-hour battery can yield one ampere, or 120 ampere the same amount of current to a battery as is taken out or used up in one minute of use of the self-starter. At night the lights will take all of the current made by the generator and so there will be no charging. A battery will also discharge slowly when idle.

From the above you can see that where the starter is much used and the car driven for short runs only the battery will become discharged and have to be recharged at an outside source, as, at a charging station. If your battery has a tendency to become discharged, reasoning from the above will tell you if the discharging is natural or if something is wrong.

BOOHOO! BUCYRUS SEEN! THINGS, IT WOULD APPEAR

And It's Not the Great Auk or the Dodo.

Gallion - Marion - Kenton - Lima against Bucyrus, says Thursday Bucyrus Telegraph.

The Marion papers of Wednesday, in their account of the chamber of commerce meeting at Marion contain no reference to any desire of those present for any change of the Lincoln highway, describing the meeting as a gathering of active road men for the improvement of market road No. 2, which runs in this section of the state from Gallion through Marion and Kenton to Lima.

The Gallion Inquirer gives no report of the meeting.

The Kenton paper writes of it as a movement for united action of the four cities to have that road permanently improved to make it the main thoroughfare east and west through northern Ohio, and states that delegations from the several counties and the commissioners will go to Columbus on Friday to unitedly urge on Highway Commissioner Herick the need of state aid for the building of this road.

Lima alone comes out plainly for a change of route. It holds the south route is the shortest and best route through the state and should again be made the Lincoln highway, and suggests the name should be changed to the Harding-Lincoln highway.

We are unable to see any reason why the cities along market road No. 2 should not unite and use the strongest pressure to get a permanent road built through that section. For seven years several sets of county commissioners, the writer and other good roads boosters devoted their time and energies to a similar work along our route and they can point with pride to a practically completed road from Marion to the present route of the Lincoln highway, the east end of the county to the highway. Our southern cities are one. It is true, the concerted action of highways will not be in Bucyrus, as far as doing them, what Crawford county has thrown a veto against Bucyrus as the Lincoln Highway Association considered six years ago and has not had a strong influence, but can control it.

It is solely up to the Lincoln Highway Association to change the route, and their first principle is to secure the shortest route. It last year they abandoned four, ten miles of brick road in Crawford county and twelve miles of state built road in Richland county to shorten the Lincoln Highway one mile between Mansfield and Bucyrus. It is difficult to formulate any reason why they would deliberately select a new route which from Mansfield to Delphos is fourteen miles further.

dry cells, and a storage battery two or more storage cells, or, as they are also called, accumulator cells, and sometimes secondary cells. Each accumulator cell, no matter how small or how large, will yield current having a voltage—electrical measure—of very slightly over two volts. The cell will give almost the full voltage, even though it be nearly discharged.

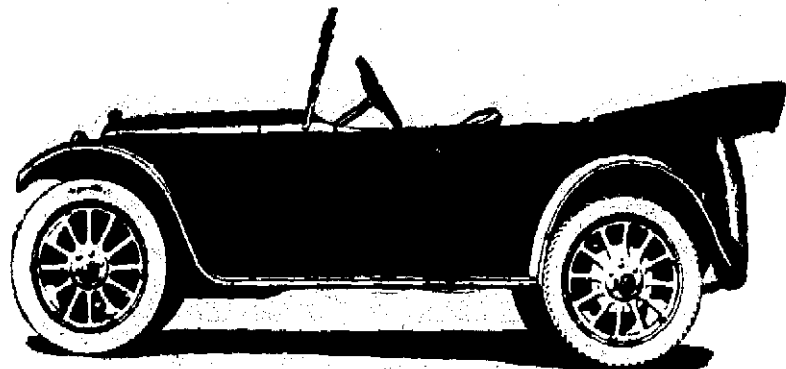

Of course, two volts is not enough pressure for practical purposes. We must have six or more volts. In order to get the increased voltage, a number of cells are connected together in "series" that is, the positive pole of one cell is connected to the negative pole of the next cell, and so on. Thus if a six-volt battery is required, three cells are so connected up, while if a twelve-volt battery is required, six cells are used.

In many cars the twelve-volt battery is used for the starting motor, but only six volts can be used for the lights and ignition. In this case a separate "cut-in" is made, so as to amperes for one-half hour, etc.

Also to bring a completely discharged sixty-ampere-hour battery to a full charge, when charged by a five-ampere current, the battery must be connected to this charging current for twelve hours. As it is customary to give a battery a ten per cent. overcharge, it would, in fact, have to be connected long enough to give sixty-six-ampere-hours, or thirteen and one-fifth hours.

Understanding the above will help you to tell what the condition of the battery of your car is. As, for example, a starting motor will require anywhere from 120 to 250 amperes in order to crank the engine. Assuming that it requires a 150-ampere current, then a fully charged sixty-ampere-hour battery would be discharged completely in one-third of an hour, or twenty minutes. Now, the charging generator charges at about a six-ampere rate, so that it would take ten hours to charge this battery. Thus you see it takes about thirty minutes of running to re-charge

The Philco Retainer as it appears

The Philco Retainer as it looks to the current

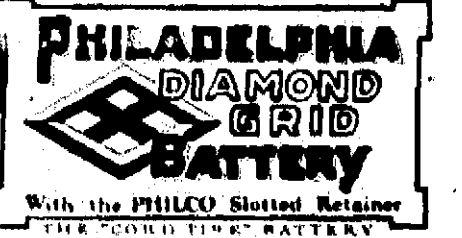

The Philco Retainer as it looks to the active material

How Long Will Your Battery Last?

With any battery, the answer is—Until a certain amount of active material has fallen off the plates.

In the Philco Retainer Battery, this falling off is long delayed. The active material is held firmly in place by Philco Retainers—thin sheets of slotted hard rubber whose slots are so numerous that they allow the free passage of acid and current, but so narrow that the active material cannot readily pass through. The Philco Retainer is like a log boom, which lets the water through but holds the logs back.

Trouble Solver For Automobile

(If you have any troubles or wish any information about your automobile write to Frederick C. Guerlich, M. E., Stamford, Connecticut.)

Q. I have a six cylinder, with a Stromberg carburetor. Of late I am having lots of trouble with the carburetor. When starting, it starts very hard and the gas just runs out of the carburetor and when the motor runs it does not get the full power. When I stop my motor the gas drops out of the carburetor very fast, about fifty to sixty drops, and sometimes more.

The float in the carburetor is of metal and is in good condition, also the valve, as there is a small glass in front of the carburetor where I can see the level of the gas at all times and it does not come to too high a level. Please let me know what I can do to overcome this trouble, as it is very annoying.

A. I doubt that there is anything unless it be that it can stand adjusting of the mixture. I believe your trouble to be entirely due to the condensation of the cold manifold. The carburetor is probably functioning all right, but as soon as the mixture strikes the cold manifold it condenses and so but a very weak mixture will reach the cylinders. When the engine is running this condensed liquid will be prevented from running back to the carburetor because of the friction of the on-rushing mixture, but just as soon as the engine is stopped, this condensed liquid will flow back to the carburetor and then drip out. This will be the fifty or sixty drops you refer to. It cannot be helped and does no harm. The leakage at starting I assume to be due to the priming of the carburetor by flooding. This also does no harm.

miss come and explode in the air.

What current will a battery take and twenty five watt Turbine lamp consumer? How many of these should I use when charging a storage battery on a thirty-two volt circuit?

A. While I doubt that your trouble is due to the use of the wrong process for carbon removing, yet I have known of valves being burned and warped when the flame was held at one spot for too long a time. I would send the exhaust valves, as you apparently have a had comparison looking at one of these. I understand that both the school you mention are good.

It is best to determine the number of lamps by trial and the use of a volt ammeter. Amperes should be about seven. Volts a little above that of the battery.

Q. I have my car stored in an unheated shed and have it the cracks closed up tight. Yet the car will sweat badly, both inside and out. I am afraid that some harm will come to it, or rotting of the leather and loss of polish of the paint. Can you suggest how to prevent the sweating?

A. While it would take a study of the conditions to surely determine the cause of the sweating, I am inclined to believe that you have the shed sealed too tightly, so that there is no circulation of air. I would open up one or two of those cracks and also open the shed door periodically.

Q. I have a Saxon, 1916 model. Every time I go up a hill in low there is a knock in my engine, and when I am running along and cut off the gasoline to slow down, it will run out of high gear.

A. The knock is probably due to worn bearing. The slipping out of gear is probably due to worn transmission bearings or gears. It might be remedied, however, by tightening on the lock of the gears.

Q. Would you recommend a manifold which is made into one piece for Ford cars?

A. Would this manifold make the people too hot to be used? Can the Ford manifold be overcharged?

A. Practically all the latest model cars have the exhaust and inlet manifold connected in some way so as to get heat from the exhaust gases for vaporizing the fuel. They are to be recommended, especially in cold weather, though, in very hot weather, they will cause a slight decrease in power.

Q. I have a Buick car. As long as the car is going over twenty miles per hour everything is O. K., but when going less than this, there is a noise in the transmission, or rather, under the footboards. It sounds as if two gears going in opposite directions try to mesh.

A. There will always be some gear noise in a car which is heard more at the lower speeds than the higher. Possibly the clutch throw-out thrust bearing, found just behind the clutch and operated by the foot-pedal, needs lubrication. You can be sure of this if the noise dis-

"Zoop! Zoop!" howled the Wolf. "You didn't invite me to the party, but here I am, just the same!" Uncle Wiggily and all the other looked very sad and unhappy, for if it had to have a wolf howling outside the door it is worse to have him in the house.

But all of a sudden, Woodie thought of something by which he could play a trick on that Wolf.

"Before you can come to my party," said the little woodchuck boy, "you must first answer a riddle."

"All right!" I'm good at riddles. Let's hear it!" howled the Wolf.

"This is it," said Woodie. "It is a very old one, and I did not make it up myself. I ask you. 'How much wood would a woodchuck chuck if a woodchuck could chuck wood?'"

"Anaxer me that!" the Wolf barked and slowly said, "How much chuck can a woodchuck chop?"

"Why, the answer to that," said the Wolf, "is that if he would saw chuck it or throw it, you know," said

"How much wood would a woodchuck chuck, if a woodchuck could chuck wood?"

Uncle Wiggily, seeing how Woodie was going to tangle the Wolf.

"Tell me the riddle once more," snarled the bad chap.

"How much wood would a woodchuck chuck if a woodchuck could chuck wood?" asked Woodie.

The Wolf tried to say it and then to think of an answer, but his tongue got all twisted.

"I'll tell you the answer, for you'll never guess it," said Woodie. "But you'll have to say it after me as fast as you can."

"All right—I will!" snapped the Wolf. So Wolf repeated: "A woodchuck would chuck as much wood as a woodchuck who could chuck wood could."

"Wait a minute now," cried the Wolf. "I can say that! A woodchuck could would chop chuck can as a chip chop would stop—woodchuck woodchuck—sawchuck—chip chop—er—ugh!"

"Oh, my tongue is all twisted like a corkscrew!" howled the Wolf. "I don't want to come to your old party, anyhow." And he was so fussed because he couldn't even say the riddle straight, much less answer it, that way he ran backward, not hurting Uncle Wiggily or any one.

Then the fun went on and every one said Woodie was real smart to tangle the Wolf with the old riddle.

No, Gentle Reader, Not Now.
Many Years Ago.

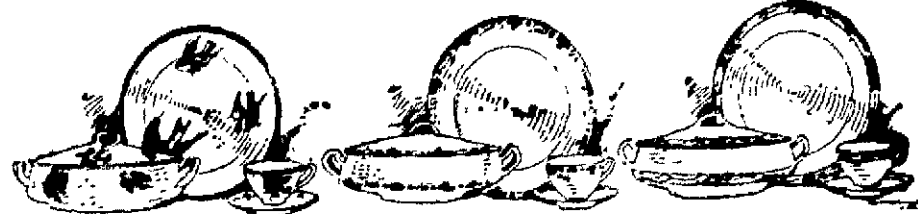

In 1890, residing in Morrow county near Ashley, brought to the Star office today an interesting relic. It was a faded clipping from a newspaper edited by Ezra Griswold at Delaware, Ohio, in the nineteenth century. The clipping was a notice published by County Auditor H. Gorton January 3, 1833, setting forth the changing of the name of Center township in Marion county to Marion township. It was a local notice to the public that in the future Center township would be known as Marion township, and it was reasonably certain that it was from Center township that Marion got its name.

Mr. Oborn found the clipping in an old trunk, which is covered with deer hide, and which has been in the family for more than 100 years.

Mr. Oborn had another clipping from the same newspaper. This clipping showed the character of the advertising in those days. One advertisement for a valuable pump about thirty-six feet long, nearly as wide as it was high, and low for cash, oats or whisky. Enquire at this office.

GARIS' BEDTIME STORIES

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE WOODIE CHUCK.

[BY HOWARD B. GARIS.]
[Copyright 1921, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.]

Once upon a time Woodie Chuck, the little woodchuck, or groundhog boy, asked his mother if he might not have a party.

"Because, you know, Mother," spoke Woodie, "it is near spring now, and most of the animal boys and girls, even those that sleep a long time in the winter, have awakened now, and I'd like to have them to my party. May I?"

"Yes," said Mrs. Chuck. "And invite Uncle Wiggily, too!" called out Waddie, who was the brother of Woodie.

"Oh, sure, we'll have Uncle Wiggily," said Woodie, so off he hurried to invite the bunny.

Uncle Wiggily said he would be very glad to come to Woodie Chuck's party, and, of course, Nurse Jane Purzy Wurry went also.

"Oh, I'm so glad you have come!" cried Woodie, as the bunny gentleman and the muskrat lady reached the woodchuck home. "Now we'll play a lot of games and have some good things to eat."

"That's the best part of a party," laughed Uncle Wiggily.

Soon the animal boys and girls, from Bammie and Susie Littletail, the rabbits, to Curly and Floppy Twistytail, the piggle boys, were having a good time. Uncle Wiggily and Nurse Jane joined in also, playing "Ring Around the Rosie" and "Hide the Piano."

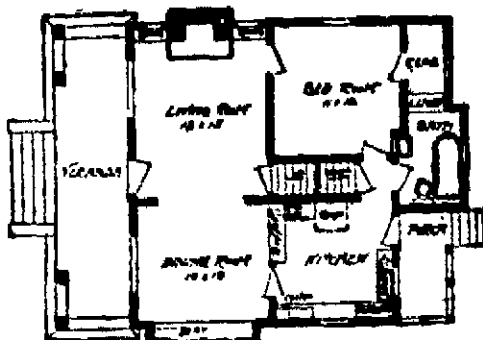

Just when the fun was at its best, and when Mrs. Chuck was thinking about bringing out the cake and tea cream, into the house came bound-
